A FLAVOR ALL OUR OWN

From his handcrafted live-edge charcuterie boards to honey harvested directly from his own bee hives, Chef Dwayne Spencer has elevated the standard for casual dining and entertaining in the Lebanon Valley.

“Our charcuterie boards have become a showcase for the rich flavors of the Lebanon Valley. I love sourcing meats from local butchers and cheeses directly from local creameries. Plus, the craft breweries in the area provide the perfect pairing for any board.”

Many of our restaurants and cafes offer a similar commitment to working with locally sourced flavors and ingredients. Look for dishes incorporating the quintessential smoked Lebanon Bologna and sweets like whoopie pies, opera fudge, and shoofly pie.

A special thanks to Chef Dwayne Spencer of the Timeless Café for creating the charcuterie board featured on the covers of this guide.

Chef Dwayne Spencer
The Timeless Café

5 TO TRY

These fantastic foods in the Lebanon Valley come from recipes passed down through generations and are still made today using the same techniques and ingredients.

OPERA FUDGE

This indulgent confection is a genuine Lebanon Valley original that features a creamy center dipped in pure chocolate liquor and can be found throughout the area. The Wertz and Van Winkle families have been making Opera Fudge and other handmade treats for almost a century.

SHUEY'S PRETZELS

Shuey's award-winning pretzels have been carefully handcrafted and coal-roasted since 1927. Shuey's hard pretzels can be found at many area locations. But Saturday soft pretzel sales at their bakery in Lebanon draw young and old alike, forming lines out the door, and are only available while supplies last.

LEBANON BOLOGNA

A trip to the Lebanon Valley is only complete with a taste of the one and only Lebanon Bologna, which has been prepared in our area since the late 1700s. This 100% beef smoked sausage is the perfect addition to any charcuterie board. Seltzer's Smokehouse Meats has been making Lebanon Bologna with special seasonings and hardwood smoked since 1902.

SHOOFLY PIE

Nothing says Pennsylvania Dutch quite like a base of molasses and brown sugar with a buttery crumb topping - affectionately known as Shoofly Pie. This must-try dessert can be found on the menu of many local restaurants and roadside stands. We recommend trying a few to taste the different family recipes.

WHOOPIE PIES

Originally made with two chocolate cake rounds and a sweet vanilla filling, these handheld treats now feature various flavors. The best Whoopie Pies are homemade and available at select bakeries, farmers markets, and grocery stores throughout the Valley.

Should Spend the Summer*

Founded in the 1890s as a place to relax during the summer months, Mount Gretna is teeming with the same natural beauty and history it was known for all those years ago. Boasted as one of the top lakeside towns in America by Fodor's Travel, our Five to Try is just the beginning of what you can find in this quaint borough.

CATCH A SHOW

Nationally renowned musical acts and professional theatre performances are held throughout the summer in the "casual elegance" of Mt. Gretna. With two historic venues: the open-air Mt. Gretna Tabernacle and storied Mt. Gretna Playhouse, there are dozens of opportunities to catch a show from June through September each year.

Mount Gretna offers world-class music and unique theatrical performances at its open-air historic playhouse. Visitors discover extraordinary cultural offerings throughout the summer culminating in the annual Mount Gretna Outdoor Art Show - a nationally ranked juried fine art and craft festival.

PENNSYLVANIA CHAUTAUQUA

In 1892 a group of Evangelical United Brethren members identified Mount Gretna as a good location for a Chautauqua. Like hundreds of Chautauquas, Mount Gretna's "Pennsylvania Chautauqua" was modeled after the original institute established on Lake Chautauqua, New York, in 1874.

Within a few years, they constructed a vaulted conical-roofed outdoor auditorium for services and concerts. The first Chautauquans built summer cottages around it, a Hall of Philosophy for meetings, and a small wooden Greek temple. Both buildings are still in use today.

GET THE LATEST SCOOP AT THE JIGGER SHOP

For over 100 years, the Jigger Shop Ice Cream Parlor has been dishing up its iconic ice cream sundaes, from the classic banana split to specialties only found in Lebanon County, like the Shoo-Fly Pie Sundae. But save room for dinner! This seasonal hot spot also offers a generous food menu.

HIKE GOVERNOR DICK

Clarence Schick Memorial Park at Governor Dick is a 1,105-acre forested park featuring trails, bouldering, and the iconic 66ft tall Governor Dick Tower with an unmatched 360° view of the Lebanon Valley and the four surrounding counties. Visit the on-site Environmental Center for more information about the history of this beautiful resource.
