DINING

PRETZELS IN LANCASTER

Being home to America's first commercial pretzel bakery Julius Sturgis, (established in 1861 in Lititz, PA), pretzels are pretty much their own food group here in Lancaster.

Our County is home to a number of family-owned and even national pretzel bakeries. While some of you may think a pretzel is a pretzel, we know there are a lot of factors that go into pretzel preferences: hard & crunchy verses soft, salty verses low-salt, light and buttery verses extra dark.

There are even dessert varieties such as cinnamon and sugar or chocolate-covered pretzels. While you are in town, be sure to try several different kinds so you can develop your own pretzel palate.

1. JULIUS STURGIS
2. HAMMOND PRETZEL BAKERY
3. AUNTIE ANN'S
4. IMMERGUT HAND-ROLLED SOFT PRETZELS
5. MARTIN'S PRETZEL BAKERY
6. DUTCH COUNTRY SOFT PRETZELS
7. MOMS PRETZELS
8. HAYLOFT ICE CREAM

DRIVE SAFELY IN AMISH COUNTRY

Driving through rural Pennsylvania will provide views of cornfields, cows, barns and horse-drawn buggies moving at speeds around ten miles per hour.

To ensure everyone is safe on our roadways:

- Slow down when approaching and passing horse-drawn buggies. Leave plenty of room to pass where it is safe and allow at least 20 feet in front of the horse before returning to the travel lane.
- Do not follow too closely, as drivers of horse-drawn buggies may not be able to see you behind them.
- Leave plenty of space between you and the horse-drawn buggy. This space gives you time to react.
- When stopped at a stop sign or stoplight, stay back! Buggies often roll back a few feet after coming to a complete stop.
- Do not blow your horn! Horses can be unpredictable and are easily spooked.
- Horse-drawn buggies will drive as close to the right hand side of the road as possible.
- Buggies will merge towards the center when making a left-hand turn. Drivers will often use turn signals or hand gestures to alert motorists.
- Remember, at night, the buggy is illuminated but the horse may be dark without reflective harnessing and can be difficult to see.

LANCASTER HISTORY

From the Amish way of life to colonial history, Lancaster County offers a fascinating journey through time. Let's go on a virtual tour of the attractions that make this region an incredible destination for heritage & history.

THE AMISH WAY OF LIFE

Lancaster County is perhaps best known for its Amish population, a group of people who have maintained a simple and traditional way of life for centuries. The Amish, who arrived in the region in the early 18th century, have avoided modern conveniences and technology, choosing to live a life centered around faith, family, and hard work.

Take a drive through the countryside, and you'll encounter horse-drawn buggies, lush farmlands, and picturesque one-room schoolhouses. Many Amish-owned businesses welcome visitors, where you can purchase handmade goods such as quilts, furniture, and delicious baked goods.
